A BUYING TRIP TO THE EAST.

Mr. Nelson of the firm of Nelson and White, proprietors of the Selz Royal Blue Store, left for the east last Friday night. He will buy his fall stock during his absence, and will return within ten days.

FUNERAL OF HARRY SUTTON.

The funeral of Harry Sutton, the unfortunate tinner who was killed by an electric shock last Saturday morning on the roof of the city hall, will be held this afternoon at 1:30 from his residence at 618 N. Fourth street.

JOE LAVIN BACK.

Joe Lavin returned to Phoenix on last night's excursion train from Tucson, after an absence of four months in Mexico. He got back from Mexico yesterday morning, spending the day in Tucson. He was in Juarez during the war and after it was over he went to Madras, Chihuahua, but the conditions did not appeal to him and he is glad to be back under the stars and stripes again.

THE ANNUAL SHOOT.

The annual shoot for qualifications of a team of the national guard to participate in the national shoot at Camp Perry, will take place at Camp Brodie this week. Major Hayden of the first battalion, who has been attending the encampment at Camp Brodie, came down yesterday morning and returned last night accompanied by Lieut. C. W. Harris. The team for Camp Perry will be selected before the end of this week and it will remain at Camp Brodie, engaged in further practice until time to leave for the east.

BOOTLEGGERS CAUGHT.

Deputy Sheriff Adams and Constable Murphy yesterday landed another Sunday bootlegger in jail. The officers had had an information that Francisco Ruiz was engaged in the illicit sale of liquors on Sundays at Second and Madison street. These joints are operated only Sunday, for thirty persons on any other day of the week, unless it is an election day can buy elsewhere with less danger of bankruptcy. Fancy prices are charged at the Sunday joints. The officers commissioned a Mexican to see if he could get his thirst assuaged at Ruiz' place and they watched him enter and saw him come out with the liquor. It was whisky, half a soda pop bottle full of it. It had been diluted with something for when the bottle was shaken a small cyclonic formation took place within the bottle. The officers then made a raid on the place and seized several bottles of beer and part of a bottle of whisky, all apparently that was left of the Sunday stock.

KANSAS CITY VISITORS.—Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Finney are enjoying a week's visit of Miss M. M. McHugh and Miss May Forbes, both of Kansas City, and spent yesterday in riding around the valley. Miss McHugh is a sister of Mrs. Finney and Miss Forbes is a young lady friend traveling with her. Mr. Finney who is clerk at the Ford hotel, will leave shortly with his family for his summer vacation. They will go to the Grand Canyon, accompanied by the young ladies and after their stay there Mr. Finney and family and Miss McHugh will go to Flagstaff for a month. Miss Forbes returning at once to Kansas City.

LOOKING FOR H. E. GRABLE.—M. J. Grable pastor of the Christian church in Salem Ohio, arrived here yesterday and is very anxious to find his brother H. E. Grable, a Salt River valley farmer who does not know he is here, and whose address M. J. Grable does not know. Mr. Grable is stopping at the Ford Hotel and will be pleased to be directed to the home of his brother by any person who may chance to know it. M. J. Grable is on route home from Portland, Oregon, where he has been attending the national convention of Christian churches. He had a letter from his brother saying he would meet him if he returned this way, but as he came on the same train his answer did, the letter of course has not been delivered.

IN THE FAR NORTH.—Phoenix friends are receiving post cards from Colonel Frank Hatch, dated Melkesholm, Olden, Norway, July 8. The colonel says he finds that locality very cool indeed and quite in contrast with conditions in the Salt River valley. The back of the post cards show the picture of a giant glacier with a man in an attitude of repose, gazing at it intently. The man may or may not be Colonel Hatch. The front of the cards announce that the sender after a day or so of rest proposes to continue his travels to North Cape on the theory that while he is in Norway he may just as well look around a little. There is another reason why he should do so and that is that the colonel is a great globe trotter and has been everywhere else except the north and south poles, and it is only proper that he should complete his work of sight seeing. His postcard from the north of Norway, got to Phoenix in two weeks which is quite an object lesson in the progress of rapid transportation. Perpetual snow and perpetual sunshine are not very far apart these days. A year or so ago the colonel was sending post cards from the orient.

SKELETON OF GIANT UNEARTHED AT JUNIPER

Rancher Discovers Remains of Man One-Third larger than human Beings of Our Race.

Was Arizona once inhabited by a race of Giants? Were the deserts peopled by titanic monsters of human intelligence before the coming of the mound builders?—or was the skeleton discovered at Juniper by Peter Marx of Juniper that of a man whose huge body made him a Goliath among a race of ordinary mortals?

What will be generally acknowledged to be one of the most wonderful and important discoveries of prehistoric life that has ever been made in the United States has been reported from Juniper, and the testimony of the original discoverer is corroborated by responsible witnesses who have seen the skeleton in the possession of Mr. Marx.

He discovered it by accident on his farm early in the week, and when asked to give a description of the skeleton, he gave the following interesting account:

"The bones of this monstrous human may have represented a race of men or a single individual. At any rate, the skeleton of the man in my possession, is sufficiently complete so that the dimensions, which are astounding, may be accurately ascertained and so far as the present generation is to be considered from what I can learn, there is no comparison to be formed. In the first place the skull is of such an abnormal size that if the average man of this day placed it over his head, he still could find room to move it backwards and forwards or up and down with ease, without disturbing his natural position. From measurements taken of this skull, a number 10 hat would be required to fit it. The teeth, several of which are still imbedded in the jawbone, substantiate the immense size of the head. They are fully one third larger than those of the men of today and present more the appearance of tusks than of molars of the human family. Other dimensions of the head reveal similar evidences in harmony with the above. As to the bones, there is no disputing the fact that the owner was symmetrically formed, of immense size and herculean strength. The thigh and lower limbs indicate at least twice the size of the average man of today. "I made the discovery by mere accident. My attention some weeks ago was directed to that part of the farm by flood waters passing through, cutting a ditch. A few bones were found on the surface, but my impression at the time was centered in the belief that they were those of some animal that had been killed. I dug into the bank that was exposed by the rushing waters, and when a distance of about three feet in depth had been reached, the skull was found. The bones that were strewn around for a few feet, with those found in the ground, were put together with the above result. The skeleton is only partially complete, but there is enough in evidence to show that it was that of a giant. "After making this discovery, my observations were continued, when metallic arrowheads and spears, stone hooks to hold garments together, a plumb bob of stone, two inches in diameter and tapering to a point, stone axes and butcher knives, pottery of modern and primitive manufacture and other articles were dug up. Near by was evidently on old fort. The walls were built of immense boulders, indicating that persons of great strength performed the work.

"I have been the owner of that tract of land for over forty-one years and have resided there continuously. That section of the farm has never been cultivated to my knowledge or that of any one else in that country. No other human frame has been found, although I intend to continue digging. The relic will be kept in my possession, as I consider it a great curiosity. Mr. Clark has seen the skeleton, visiting the valley after I made the discovery."

AMERICAN CAPITALISTS TAKE MEXICAN MINES

Washington and Boliver Properties Reported Sold to Newly Organized Company.

An important mining deal is reported to be pending in Douglas, where Bostwick and Dickson, two well known mining men of the southwest, have placed themselves at the head of the Washington Mines Development company for the purpose of taking over the Washington and Boliver properties in northern Sonora, generally known as the Washington mines.

To date there has been upwards of $25,000 spent in their development, and there is a body of ore conservatively estimated at 250,000 tons blocked out, running from 3 to 5 per cent copper, making the cost per ton of ore blocked, four cents.

The Washington mine, both in its geological structure and in the character of its ore, greatly resembles the Philips mine of the Phelps-Dodge company. Its great advantage, and the great advantage of all similar properties, is the ideal character of the ores for concentration. A saving of from 80 to 85 per cent can be made with these ores against a saving of from 65 to 70 per cent of the disseminated coppers. The concentrates being a premium at the smelter on account of the excess of sulphur and iron contents.

The Washington mines are near the properties of the Transvaal Mining company, west of Cuppas. This company is vigorously prosecuting development work, and have developed a large tonnage of both milling and smelting ores. It is the intention of the various companies, operating in this district to construct a narrow gauge railroad from Cuppas to their properties as soon as they decide on the installation of reduction works.

The officials of the Southern Pacific have given the mine owners and companies, operating in the vicinity of Cuppas, assurance that the railroad will be completed to Cuppas as soon as they are prepared to ship the product of their mines. As these ores and concentrates will be smelted at Douglas this will greatly increase the tonnage treated at the local smelter.

Mr. S. W. Gunter, one of the best known mining men of the southwest will be associated with the Bostwick and Dickson combine in the development of the Washington mines.

It is the intention of the company to place a small block of the stock on the market, the proceeds to be used for the further development of the properties. As soon as the development work is well under way the stock will be placed on the eastern markets.

As the deal work is completed for the opening and blocking of two more levels in the Boliver mine, and one more level in the Washington mine, the management expects to double the tonnage within two months.

YAQUIS DEMAND HEREDITARY LANDS

Indians of Mexico Present Demands to Mexican Government.

George Peterson, an American rancher on the big grant of the Richardson company in the state of Sonora, during a recent visit to Tucson, declared that the Yaqui Indians have demanded the towns of Cocorit and Bacum from the Mexican Government, as well as their hereditary lands along the Yaqui river, and that they have threatened to attack the Mexican towns and troops unless the government accedes to their demands within the next few days.

Referring to the dissatisfaction among the Yaquis of which he is well informed owing to the close proximity of the lands under dispute to the ranch on which he is employed, Mr. Peterson said:

"Cocorit and Bacum, with their little suburbs, comprise about 4,000 population, and they are surrounded by little pueblos and 10 and 20-acre ranches, all of which the Yaquis are demanding," said Mr. Peterson. "They claim this land as their own in addition to the pueblos along the Yaqui river, which the government has said it will soon throw open to them. "The Indians are now doing little but committing petty depredations mostly against the Mexicans. The American settlers, of whom there are about seventy-five families on the Richardson grant, have so far been immune from molestation. Mobilize Troops.

"Apprehensive of a sudden attack, such as the Indians say they will make in a few days if their demands are not acceded to, the government is mobilizing troops in the Yaqui country as rapidly as possible. It seems to be the policy of the government just now to temporize with the Indians and get enough troops on the ground to control the situation before an open rupture is allowed to occur. "The provisional officers are treating the American settlers courteously, favoring them whenever possible, and the ranchers are doing quite well. Many of them have now received deeds to their land. A large number of the Americans have sent their families through to California, both to avoid the heat and the dangerous possibility of Indian troubles."

DOUGLAS GIRLS MUST LICENSE THEIR PETS

Three Fair Maidens Haled into Court for Failure to Comply With Law.

The beauty of feminine owners of dogs is no recommendation to the clemency of Douglas judges these days. A failure to comply with the rules of the city regarding licenses caused four girls, residents of the restricted district of that ungallant city, to be brought before the police court charged with owning dogs on which no license had been paid. The poundmaster, who made the complaint, testified that he had warned the girls on numerous occasions that they were liable to arrest if they did not secure licenses for the dogs.

Realizing the seriousness of their situation, and the justice of the charge preferred against them, and also seeing in the cold eyes of the judge a complete unwillingness to mitigate and pardon their offense because of their sex, three of the fair prisoners pleaded guilty, and upon hearing their testimony, Judge Lockwood let them go on suspended sentence with the stipulation that they bring their dogs to the poundmaster and then redeem them in the usual way. This the girls agreed to do at once and went on their way rejoicing.

Ruby Earl, who pleaded guilty, testified that she made no claim to owning the dog in her case, and after hearing her testimony and that of the poundmaster the judge discharged her as being not guilty.
